

Interesting Science - Facts & Tips - The Amazing World Of Science

Example from the book: Gone are the days when children satisfied themselves with basic games of hopscotch or tag. Heck, there are practically no more simple toys in the toy market these days wherein its slowly being dominated by more and more complicated contraptions. From toy PDA electric models to enhanced walkie talkies, children these days have more discerning taste when it comes to their playing pleasure. So in an age wherein cellphones and digital cameras are just all too typical, whats really the buzz about the wonders of a robot toy? What makes a robot toy tick? And possibly, most essential, what makes a robot toy click? To put things basically, an electric robot toy is an extremely sophisticated piece of technology especially for children who have always been used to playing with either plastic, wooden or plush toys. Things are indeed a changin these days, a robot toy is practically what each and every kid, well boys that is asks for in his wish list. Beginning with the really hip and ultra high-tech robot toy, Robo Sapien which promises to be a whole more than just a basic robot toy. A smart robot toy like this actually tries to break the mold ordinary plastic robot toys that only has blinking lights and beeping sound effects. Robot toys that are accessible in the market today are far more sophisticated than that especially since theyve been able to make these robot toys more interactive. A really essential factor when it comes to ensuring its saleability in this rapidly changing world of toy commerce. Video games have been a typical staple when it comes to electric toy gadgets for children, nevertheless these can not be regarded as a robot toy. The once well-liked Tamagotchi might look and feel like a video game but it is actually actually a robot toy as well. Whats differentiates the Tamagotchi from being a video game you may ask? Well for one thing, video games are just electric role playing mind games wherein you have a particular goal or task that must be taken care of whilst a robot toy like the Tamagotchi is actually highly dependent on the interaction between the Tamagotchi and the user. The Tamagotchi is actually a simulation of what is supposed to be of an animal, just like ordinary toy robots which are mock-ups of human beings whilst a video game is merely an audio visual device that is utilized to play games. There are actually all sorts of robot toys accessible in the market today, from highly sophisticated, not to mention, costly, Robo Sapien to outdated Tamagotchis to high tech robot toy pets that have caused quite a stir even in Japan wherein people dont really have that much time to take care of a real dog. Robo pets have been making a lot of buzz in the toy market because of its highly innovative design and almost life like actions, Robo pets ordinarily comes in either a pet dog or a pet cat. It can play fetch, run, heel, even bark at you. This robot pet has definitely come a long, long way from the old wind-up robot toys that used to be every kids fancy. Come to think of it, not only children are getting in to the whole robot toy craze, with many grown adults now getting more and more hooked to the highly sophisticated robot toys in the market. Considering that adults do have the spending power as compared with children who are still reliant on their parents mercy, toy companies are also attempting to come out with robot toys that could be appreciated by adults as well.
