

The latest SEO News from Google and Bing for April 2012

Search engine optimisation is an industry that never sleeps; Google and Bing are consistently changing their algorithm to provide better search results. As the goalpost keeps moving how do you keep on top of all the latest news and developments? After all running your business takes up enough of your time, spending more hours reading blogs and news articles about SEO will only add to it. That's the reason for this monthly reference book to help you find out the Facts from the Fiction. I will be explaining in plain English what has changed in SEO over the last month and how you can change your website to benefit from it. This easy to read reference book will also provide tips and new ways to help your website gain more visitors and generate more income. Don't waste your time sifting through hundreds of articles trying to find what is real and what someone has made up. All our advice is supported by the major search engines. A little bit about myself, I have been working in SEO for nearly 10 years and I'm the founder of Juicy SEO (<http://www.juicyseo.co.uk>). We have clients of all sizes from Blue chip multi-internationals to single person small businesses. It is an important part of my job to ensure I know what changes have happened with the search engines algorithms and what we think will happen in the future. I talk to a lot of people in the SEO community and read about a lot of ideas people have. I never recommend any SEO ideas unless tested myself or by someone I trust. Throughout the month Google and Bing often share tips and suggestions on how to improve your website and get it seen by more people. All these are included in this reference book.
