We hope you find this guide informative and that you can see how using the methods that we actively promote for our clients can not only help your business to succeed but can also help you to plan a long term SEO campaign to make sure your website traffic improves consistently and maintains its progress. It is important to remember the SEO campaigns need to run as long as you plan to keep your website or business running! Many people think a short burst of SEO work will change the fortunes of your site, drive traffic and this will be maintained once the burst is over. This is simply not the case and you should view SEO as something you need to do throughout the life of your company or website. SEO can have very good short term effects if done correctly, but it is the long term gains you need to focus on and this means any campaign should be maintained for as long as your possibly can.
